

Have A Taste Of South Florida Beaches

Florida is definitely a state in the USA that is boasting with natural wonders that the sea around it brings. People are so enthusiastic in exploring the wonders of this state, but one day is definitely not enough to visit all the coastline destinations around it.

But if you want an overview of what in store in the southern part of this state, you should take note of the south Florida beaches being described below.

The first one is the Miami Beach. It is a very famous beach spot in Florida, where you can enjoy your time with activities such as swimming, jet skiing, snorkeling, biking, sail boarding, and jogging. The boardwalk alongside the shore is steaming with restaurants that offer scrumptious and mouth-watering delicacies that are perfect for you and your family to enjoy in your fine dining experience.

The next on the list of south Florida beaches is Haulover Beach Park. This is an ideal place for seashore picnic while enjoying the warmth of the sun and the sound of the rolling waves. This spot is also tagged as the only legal nude beach in Florida.

The third beach destination is the Deerfield Beach, with a long stretch of beachfront view filled with restaurants and other facilities. The place is often flocked by tourists who love to play with its sand and waters.

Other south Florida beaches you should not miss in your visit are the Hollywood beach and boardwalk, Fort Lauderdale Beach, the Red Reef Park, Delray Municipal beach, and Spanish River Park.

About the Author

Source: <http://www.yourfloridatips.com>